

Trees Up Close (Timber Press, 2014, $15) features balletic images of common trees created through a special process designed for microscopic slides. Photographer Robert Llewellyn and author Nancy Ross Hugo have created a nook whose concise text and almost pocket-size dimensions make it perfect for tree-watching in the backyard or forest. A water-and-dirt-resistant cover makes it easy to wipe off the book before returning it to the shelf.

Source: Benjamin Whitacre. (2015, November-December) Gardener's Books, Armchair Exploration. The American Gardener, p. 53