

A Cuyahoga County Master Gardener Continuing Education Program

Composting and Irrigation Demonstrations

Nicole Wright, OSU Extension Program Coordinator

Jacqueline Kowalski, OSU Educator

Tuesday, June 11, 2013

6:00 pm to 8:00 pm

Education Credits: 2.0

Kinsman Farm

We'll meet at the corner of East
82nd Street and Higbee Avenue

Guests are welcome for this program.

Nicole Wright, OSU Extension Program Coordinator will give a demonstration on composting and Jacqueline Kowalski will show us about drip irrigation at the farm. Drip irrigation is an important tool to save time, money, and energy and avoid disease problems. Jacqueline Kowalski will discuss the basic parts, principles, and design strategies for vegetable garden and fruit orchards.

Because this is an ongoing part of the Kinsman Farm and to encourage you all to come out, there will be no cost to this program. Please come and gain some good knowledge that you can bring back to your own garden or to any community garden that you are involved with. In order to be sure of getting your two continuing education credits, please return the registration blank below.
