Guests are welcome for this program

We will learn about permaculture gardening from Tom Gibson and Elsa Johnson who were instrumental in the installation of the beautiful garden behind the First Unitarian Church in Shaker Heights. When applied to gardening, permaculture involves growing food almost anywhere and mimicking nature to simplify cultivation and increase yields. We will tour the garden which was designed to be an inviting oasis for people, while incorporating the tenets of permaculture gardening. If you are a stranger to permaculture, this is your opportunity to be introduced.

Registrations must be received by Tuesday, August 6th.

Pay online at <http://www.cuyahogamg.org/EducationStore>. To pay by check complete and return the registration blank below.
